

LIVE CLOSE TO NATURE

LIVE CLOSE TO NATURE

IT is your right to enjoy the fulness of Nature's freedom. And whosoever you are and wheresoever you be, the word "freedom" begets a longing for something outside your daily routine.

A deep desire starts in your mind and is expressed by a prolonged stretch, a long-drawn sigh, or some such other ejaculation as "Oh well, the same old grind." And you continue to grind.

It is the penalty of the twentieth century business rush. Nature alone holds the keys that open its prisoner's way to this freedom.

And you will find one of the least costly keys hanging outside the door of a Kenyon Take Down House.

A friend, feeling this freedom need, rented a summer cottage for $150. It was not conveniently situated for his vacation needs.

LIVE CLOSE TO NATURE

But, even though he had obtained as good a location as is possible with a Kenyon Take Down House—the rental of his cottage at $150 for fifteen seasons would exceed the cost of a Kenyon House by $2100. Because The Kenyon Take Down House has a life of fifteen years. It is paid for with one season's rent thereby saving the purchaser the rent of fourteen seasons.

Think what it means to have the tension relaxed, the worry removed and to find oneself far from the "maddening crowd."

There on the very spot that appeals to you, in four hours time you may see a perfect house put together by your own hands. A house complete with floor and doors, windows, curtains, awnings and screens. The mosquitoes cannot break through to steal your comfort, nor the rainy weather enter.

LIVE CLOSE TO NATURE

That is what the Kenyon House can do for you.

That, and more, which life within its walls alone can tell.

As some one "They come as boon and blessing producers, has written: The Kenyon Portable houses for you, Sirs."

There's the exhilarating pleasure of erecting it. The gratification of seeing the structure take shape. Then, when complete, you step inside upon the hardwood floor; you see the inner ceiling, which reminds you that superheating is thus prevented, and the ventilators drawing out the foul and forcing in the fresh air. Then you appreciate these "boon and blessing producers" — The Kenyon Take Down Houses.

There are two, three, four or five room Kenyon Houses.

There is the Kenyon Portable Garage and chaffeur's room, and there's every other convenient addition to a house that you'd find in many a city mansion.

LIVE CLOSE TO NATURE

The Kenyon Take Down House with the additional conveniences named, compared with the Summer Hotel or Summer Cottage gives an overwhelming abundance of comfort, liberty and privacy.

The saving in vacation expenses, especially for persons having large families is simply enormous, as has been shown by an actual occurrence. We repeat it, the first cost of a Kenyon House which averages the cost of summer cottage accommodation for one season, provides at least 14 subsequent vacations, besides providing a store-house, a play room for children, or extra house accommodation for the winter if you prefer to set up the house in your back yard instead of storing its sections away.

LIVE CLOSE TO NATURE

Should inclement weather arise, the flexible windows provided are inserted, which effectually close up all sources of discomfort. Moreover, the Kenyon Ventilators are so arranged that accumulating foul air from exhalation, etc., is impossible, all gases being constantly dispersed through ventilators at each end of the building; thus is ensured a constant supply of pure, fresh air, Nature's gift to all; and enjoyed by all who live close to Nature which all goes to demonstrate the Kenyon Take Down Houses to be the best accessories to this very desirable end.

The Kenyon Take Down House is made in different sizes from One to Eight Rooms and varying in price from $42.50 to $475.00.

THE R . L . KENYON C O . , WAUKESHA, WIS.

ASSOCIATION FOR PRESERVATION
TECHNOLOGY,
INTERNATIONAL
www.apti.org

BUILDING
TECHNOLOGY
HERITAGE LIBRARY

<https://archive.org/details/buildingtechnologyheritagelibrary>